

APPALACHIAN GERONTOLOGY EXPERIENCES: ADVANCING DIVERSITY IN AGING RESEARCH (AGE-ADAR) SCHOLARS PROGRAM

The AGE-ADAR Scholars Program is a two-year paid program where students will take courses on aging and health disparities in Appalachia, as well as participate in intensive hands-on research. Students will take part in courses and workshops in which the focus will be on professional development, as well as written and oral communication skills.

Benefits:

- / Stipend
- / Work with a Group of Scholars (Year 1)
- / Work One-on-one with Faculty Mentor in Student's Discipline (Year 2)
- / Professional Development
- / Research Experience
- / Develop Analytical Skills
- / Present at Regional Conferences

Eligibility:

- / Rising WVU Undergraduate Sophomore or Junior
- / Declared MSTEM Majors
- / Must Identify within a Under-represented Group
- / Enrolled as a Full-time Student with GPA of 2.0 or Higher
- / Must be a Permanent Resident or U.S. Citizen

Contact us to learn more!

Dr. Betty Mei, Program Director - bmei@mail.wvu.edu
Amber Rusch, Program Assistant - amber.rusch@mail.wvu.edu